INTERVIEW

Describe yourself in three words.
Tall, empathetic, and funny — three traits that shape both how I move through the world and how I connect with the people around me.

Who inspires you and why?
Lady Gaga—her fearless creativity, authenticity, and ability to turn eccentricity into real art always inspire me.

What do you think about AI generated art and reading material?
AI art has its pros and cons. It can enhance creativity, but it also takes away from authenticity. Instead of people creating from imagination, they're just typing prompts—and while the results look real, they often lack the soul and originality of true art.

Should books be determined to be outdated and no longer functional?
No. Even if a book feels outdated, it becomes vintage—a time stamp of culture, history, and creativity. Books carry value as art and memory, giving people a way to look back and reflect on a different era.

Do you have a charitable cause you care about?
Yes—animal rescue and protection is very close to my heart. I also strongly support causes that raise awareness and funding for type 1 diabetes research, as I live with the disease myself.

Your favorite TV series?
Dexter Morgan—it's dark, complex, and keeps me hooked with its mix of suspense and psychology.

Thoughts on city life versus country life?
I enjoy the energy of city life from time to time, but at heart I'm a homebody who thrives on open space. My dream is to one day own a home with plenty of land to truly enjoy and grow into.

Where will you be in exactly one year from this moment?
Hopefully healthier, wiser, more financially stable, and exactly where I'm meant to be.

Is it ever okay to cheat at anything, why or why not?
This question can have many layers and perspectives, but my simple answer is no—cheating takes away from growth, authenticity, and real success.

Do you have a story to tell about a photo shoot?
One of my favorite shoots so far was with JC. What made it so special was how naturally it came together—three creatives building something out of nothing. We had so much fun, lost track of time, and ended up with not only some of my favorite photos ever but also one of my best experiences.

What would you wear on the perfect date?
Nothing.

One thing you'd change if you ruled the world.
Honestly, I don't think I'd want to rule the world—it's too much responsibility when I'd rather focus on my own growth. But if I had to choose, there are so many areas that need change: debt, hunger, peace, ending war, and tackling drug abuse. It's hard to narrow it down to just one.

My story in less than 5 minutes…
I started my modeling journey later than most would expect—just this year. My whole life people told me I should model because of my height (I'm six feet tall), but I lacked confidence and didn't know where to begin. Taking that first step changed everything. I've met incredible people, created images I'm proud of, and realized it's never too late, especially as I turn 28 this year.

I love exploring all genres of modeling, especially unique, eccentric, and erotic styles that break the mold. Living with type 1 diabetes adds another layer—I've had to learn how to be comfortable with my sensors, take breaks, and care for myself during photo shoots. But it's also allowed me to educate and inspire others who notice and ask about it.

Modeling has already taught me so many lessons in such a short time, and I hope to continue growing, creating, and pursuing this passion while staying true to myself.

If your life was made into a movie, who would play your part and which actor would you want to be your leading man?
I'd want to play myself—no one else could capture my story the way I can. As for my leading man, it would be my boyfriend, because our relationship is truly one of a kind. We're unique in how we live our lives, and I can't think of anyone else who could portray that dynamic. While I admire plenty of leading men in movies—especially superheroes like Spider-Man—our story is different, more real, and perfectly ours.
